Business: The group's principal activities are to design, construct, own and operate natural gas systems and facilities for the processing and treating of natural gas and natural gas liquids. The group operates in four segments: gathering, processing and treating, exploration and production, marketing and transportation. Gathering, processing and treating segment connects oil and gas wells to the gathering systems for delivery to processing or treating plants. Exploration and production segment develops and explores natural gas to enhance and support the existing gathering and processing operations. Marketing segment buys and sells natural gas and ngl's in the wholesale market. Transportation segment transports natural gas through regulated pipelines for producers and energy marketers. The group's operations are conducted in gas-producing basins in the rocky mountain, mid-continent and southwestern regions of the United States.

Business: The group's principal activities are to identify, manage, acquire, develop, sell and lease water and water rights in the western United States. The group actively pursues opportunities to purchase reliable water supplies that can be used to augment or supplement local municipal supplies and there by participate in the growth of the region. The main objectives of the group are to maximize the potential value of its existing water assets, to acquire and develop new water assets and to develop additional revenue sharing agreements with other water and landowners. The group concentrates on the service contracts and regulated utility operations. It seeks to own the water resources needed by local water systems and to provide cities and water districts with water that replaces reductions in historic water sources, increases reliability of supply, minimizes long-term costs, reduces the need for additional large capital investments by such cities.

Business: The group's principal activities are to grow and harvest timber, manufacture and sell forest products, real estate development and construction and other real estate related activities. Its operations are classified into six business segments: timberlands; wood products; pulp and paper; containerboard, packaging and recycling; and real estate and related assets. Timberland is engaged in the management of 6.7 million acres of leased commercial forestland in North America. Wood products produce and sell softwood lumber, plywood and veneer, oriented strand board and composite panels, hardwood lumber, and engineered lumber products. Pulp and paper manufactures a range of both coated and uncoated papers and business forms through our own sales force and through paper merchants and printers. Containerboard manufactures linerboard, corrugating medium and kraft paper. Real estate and related assets division develops single family housing and residential lots for sale.

Business: The group's principal activity is to provide facial composite software to police and government agencies in North America. The faces(tm) 4.0 technology allows the easy creation and re-creation of billions of human faces through an exhaustive database of facial features. The faces software creates composite pictures with remarkable ease and speed, and automatically converts the composite into unique biometric alphanumeric codes or bac ids. This technology helps law enforcement to identify and capture criminals quickly and efficiently.
